

Bridgewater Retreat 2005

13 people participated. We decided to open it up to partners or friends of SCA members. Great decision which we will repeat in 2006.

This is what Line said about our weekend:

As a new associate member of the SCA I was truly impressed by the weekend at the Bridgewater Retreat. Our hosts Beth and Heather made us feel very welcome and made sure we were well fed. During meals and over coffee the members mingled, laughed and told stories.

The location is nothing but spectacular and peaceful. Studio's were available for all to work and get to know each other. Whether sketching, taking photos, writing or painting, inspiration was everywhere. If you missed this weekend check into the next one. Oh! a little tip ... minimize your luggage, Maximize your art supplies.

This year we played Poetry instead of charades, and this is the poems everyone decided was the best:

For what Reason am I Here – The back is forever gone!

For what reason am I here
Blue sky and lime trees
Orange water, let's drink
I only drink green drinks
When I'm feeling blue and randy
I ask for floss and candy
And what do I get? – I ask you?
A gift that surpasses
Is a joyous expression of love
But what is repressed?
A shirt ironed again
But only on the front
The back is forever gone
